to pass without opposition, proposes to exempt from State, county and municipal taxation for three years the real estate of every immigrant and the capital invested in improving it to an amount not exceed

THE distance between the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific railroad, formerly reported at eighty miles, is now but sixty miles, over which gap passengers are transported by stage The Southern Pacific railroad is already constructed twenty miles beyond the poin where the Atchison, Topeks & Santa Fe railroad will intersect it.

THE prohibitory sentiment seems to be decidedly on the increase in Alabama, the recent session of the Legislature prohibiting the sale or manufacture liquors in Crenshaw county and in thir teen other districts of smaller size in dif ferent parts of the State. The general impression that there would not be so much shooting on sight if less liquor were drank has much to do with this temperance sentiment. The Legislature further distinguished itself by yielding to the persistent crusade of Julia Tutwiler, of Tuscaloosa, and enacting stringent laws for the betterment of the county prisons, where the condition of things has been such that it has been a violation of the commonest humanity to confine prisoners within their walls.

The Much Talked of January Boo

Because a great deal of money is to be paid out on or before the 1st of January by the government and by many corpora tions, aggregating perhaps one hundred millions in all, it has been predicted that a great amount would be given in securities of all kinds. This may or may no prove to be the case, and in case it should not, the explanation may very reason ably be found in the following remarks on the subject by the New York Public:

Undoubtedly the truth is that stocks and bonds amounting to many millions in value have been bought already, and are now held in loans or on margins by persons who will have money to invest after the January disbursements have been needs. These persons by their purchases. ade. It med good to them to take time by the and to buy before "the January began. But they did not reason rectly if they supposed that all the ple who are going to have money would wait until after January The same reasons which led each man to buy early also led others to buy early, and it is a question now whether there is to be any "January boom" at all. If the investors have already taken the stocks that they want, and if the speculators have already loaded up in anticipation of the rise which the buying by investors is expected to cause, the result may be much like that which followed when all the inhabitants of the earth agreed to shout together at the same instant. The hour came, but everybody was so anxious to hear the tremendous noise to be made thnt nobody shouted except one deaf old woman.

Forsythe.

Chicago Inter-Ocran of the 34th. It was a happy party that met at the office of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Company at 7:10 o'clock last evening, determined to watch the General Freight Agent of that road. To do this successfully they must take transportation to the residence of that gentleman, and carriages were in waiting to carry the party to 3822 Ellis avenue, the home of the gonial, joily Robert Forsythe, for he is that answers to the name of the most popular freight agent in Illinois. The party was augmented at several stations along Michigan avenue, and when the carriages rolled up to the door the friends of Mr. Forsythe slighted and gave a vigorous pull at the latch-string which slavays hangs out. The friends of Mr. Forsythe slighted and gave a vigorous pull at the hatch-string which slavays hangs out. The friends of or ompany.

The family were not allowed to wondered, and were made prisoners. The best freight agent and his happy spouse had surredered, and Robert Forsythe, his excellent wife, aged mother, and troop of romping boys had surredered, and Robert Forsythe, his excellent wife, aged mother and troop of romping boys had surredered, and Robert form a wedding, and Mr. Forsythe that his friends had serious intentions of watching him in such a manner that he might be able to time them. As he finished this little speech, he brought forth from some unforced properties speech told Mr. Forsythe that his friends had serious intentions of watching him in such a manner that he might be able to time them. As he finished this little speech, he brought forth from some unforced properties speech in response. He was happy—he need not have said so—but could not understand why he had been singled out for such good fortune. He had done his duty, and would continue to do that whatever happened Nothing would attract him from that plain path. He was glad to receive his friends, and sasured them that the latch-string of Robert Forsythe would always be found on the outside.

The watch was a beautiful one, valued at $400, and one case bore the monogram of the recipient, while the other bore the date 1800, and one cas Railroad Company at 7:10 o'clock last evening, determined to watch the General Freight Agent of that road. To do this

His better half was the first to congratu-late Mr. Forsythe upon his good fortune, and Robert, Jr., took possession of the Colonel's old turnip that the new timer might have a place in the vest pocket of

The dining room was transferred into a banquet hall, and the champagne flowed freely for a time. Mrs. Forsythe and her venerable mother did all in their power to entertain their guests, and after an evening of social intercourse the party drank to the toast, "Growing Bob," and bade social with the social interconduction."

The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bushnell, Richard Haley, F. V. Davis, W. H. Knight, J. W. Pardee, A. J. Trunkey, H. L. Norton, H. Haines and H. W. Holmes. The leading spirit in this pleasant affair was the very jolly, good natured Dick Haley, special detective of the C. & E. I.

What the taxpayers of this county want what the taxpayers of the county wast to see—and they have the right to demand it—is a detailed, itemized account of the re-ceipte from all sources; of the kind, quality, value, and disposition of the farm producis; of the expenditures of all kinds, giving items and, prices of articles purchased, and from whom.

from whom.

With a report of this character the people could see the quality of articles purchased, the price paid and the manner in which the patronage has been distributed.

The trouble is the people do not look carefully enough after their public servants, and hence it is that negligence and irregularities so often occur in official positions.

It may be objected to that a statement of the kind called for would entail a large amount of labor and expense. What if it does? I don't think any tax payer will object to the expense, and the labor need not be so very great if the books and vouchers are in the shape they should be. Now as to the aninus of this article: Now as to the animus of this article the writer disclaims any and all unking mess towards the present incombent managing the Poor House. I am neither an aspiriant for the office myself nor are any of my friends that I am aware of.

the Poor House owes to himself as well as the public that this statement be furnished, and I trust the Board of Commissioners will see that it is done.

If it prove satisfactory so much the better for the Superintendent and the tax-payers; if not, the people want to know it. Reforms are needed in both our city and county government, and now is a good time for the people to consider the matter and take steps towards instituting them.
